Some facts justify the belief expressed by republicans that the democrats are planning and expecting to win the next presidential election by throwing it into the House of Representatives. Apparently they are making no strong effort to compromise the differences be-tween the east and the west, between the silver and anti-silver wings, and it is suspected that they look to the renomination of Cleveland with the expectation of a third or silver-freecoinage candidate being put in the field, whose candidacy will throw the election into the House, if the democratic ticket fails to win a majority of the electoral votes. In the House already elected which will choose the next President if the popvote fails to elect, there are twenty eight democratic, twelve republican and three ace states. Success of the democratic candidate would therefore be assured if the republicans failed to secure a majority of the electoral votes, no matter how this majority was divided between the democrats and the alliance. The plan attributed to the democrats is to run Cleveland on the gold platform in the east with the view of carrying New York, Con-nectiont, New Hampshire and possibly Massachasetts, and to leave the western states to the alliance and free-silver, considering any alliance victories as in practical results their own. Difficulties will, however, be met in

In connection with the world's fair it is proposed to hold an interparliamentary conference f persons who either are or have been members of national parliaments or congresses, a universal peace congress and a conference of national governments at the invitation of the United States. The latter idea is strictly new and the three features taken together counct fail to add to the impressiveness of the occasion. It seems peculiarly appropriate that the Great Republic should lead in establishing the principle of peace on earth and good will to men by the agency of a tribunal of arbitration to whom could be referred such matters as could not be arranged by the ordinary course of negotiation. It is noted that in connection with the Paris exposition of 1889 there were held more than one hundred congresses, making Paris for the time not only the industrial and commercial, but the intellectual center of the world. The exposition at Chicago is likewise to be a meeting of intellects as well as an exhibit of material products.

Great Britain is again, after a long interval, wrestling with an Indian rebellion of much gravity. Great Britain, in the task of Hindoo government, has before her one of the most serious problems ever before any people for solution. With internal difficulty sufficient to appall a less lion-hearted and intelligent nation there is the perpetual and constantly increasing menace of Russia on the northwestern frontier. It took the greatest of English statesmen, Lord Chatham, to conquer India and Canada, but it will take a succession of Chathams-something inconceivable-to hold these possessions and govern them so as to enhance the glory of motherland.

The annual election for state officers and members of the legislature in lihode Island tomortow will be the first of the preliminary state elec-tions which form the battleground of the great presidential contest of 1892.
